A Temple for Abstract Art
Fumihiko Maki and the Museum Reinhard Ernst

Author: Falk Jaeger / Ed: Reinhard & Sonja Ernst Stiftung

- New museum building by the Pritzker award winner in Wiesbaden
- The museum was opened in June 2024

The founder and patron Reinhard Ernst planned a home for his unique collection; the city of Wiesbaden provided a site in the heart of the city and the Japanese star architect Fumihiko Maki delivered the plans. The result is the Museum Reinhard Ernst for abstract art, an architectural gem, but also a building open to the public and a magnet for the international art public alike.

The author Prof. Dr. Falk Jaeger is a building historian and works as an architecture critic and publicist in Berlin. He writes for major daily newspapers, specialist media and has published more than 40 books about architecture, urban development and monument preservation.
